Israel Protests Arab Arms Deal

Warns U. N. She May Strike First

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 3 (P)—Israel protested vigorously today against the sale of arms by any country to her hostile Arab neighbors. She warned she might not wait passively for a decisive blow from the Arabs.

Ambassador Abba Eban, Israeli chief delegate, told the U. N. Assembly that Egypt, which has concluded a deal for arms with Czechoslovakia, is conducting "macabre bargains in weapons of death."

Security Threatened

"In the name of our region's threatened security we are moved to appeal to all peace loving states to avoid rewarding Arab belligerency with arms; to abstain from disturbing military balance on which the peace of our region has precariously rested for seven years," Eban said in the closing round of general debate in the Assembly.

"It is indeed hard to comprehend how any government which values its moral position can give or sell arms to governments whose primary international objective is to harass, besiege, intimidate, and if possible destroy a neighboring state with which they refuse to establish peace."

Syria Denounces Israel

Eban said Israel stands at the heart of the Middle East and is there to stay. He urged the Arabs to join Israel in regional harmony and cooperation.

The Arab answer was given by Ahmad El-Shukairy, Syria, who assailed Israel as a "spring-board of imperialism." He said that Israel "as a state has no room in our lands." Shukairy proposed the Security Council set up a commission made up of the United States, Soviet Union and Iran to settle the problem of one million refugees uprooted from Palestine.

Faure and Pinay Cancel Oct. 14-16 Trip To Moscow

PARIS, Oct. 3 (P)—Premier Edgar Faure and Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay canceled today a scheduled "courtesy and friendship visit" to Moscow. The explanation was that the atmosphere is not favorable now for this type of trip.

The French action reflected the bitterness in Paris at what was apparently considered a gratuitous blow to French prestige in the United Nations General Assembly vote to discuss the Algerian situation.

Russia Backs North Africans

In Moscow, Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, in effect the spokesman for world communism, announced the Soviet Union supports the independence movement in North Africa. He called it the "national liberation" movement. The Soviet Union—and world communism—for years has sponsored "national liberation movements" in all areas of the colonial world, using such support as a potent cold war weapon among underdeveloped peoples.

The official French announcement said the visit of Faure and Pinay to Moscow, planned for Oct. 14 to 16, was put off to a future date. But there was no discussion of any later date, and some thought it extremely unlikely the trip would be made.

Soviet Voted Against France

Putting off the trip was part of the aftermath of a vote in the U. N. Assembly to debate the situation in Algeria. Russia voted with the majority in the 28-27 vote. France maintains Algeria is an integral part of metropolitan France and that the subject is purely an internal matter, falling outside the competence of the U. N. In protest, France began a boycott of the Assembly.

Alleged Topsy Pilot Leads Police Chase

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 3 (P)—A former pilot who allegedly had too much to drink whizzed up and down a foggy Concord airport runway in a small plane early today, eluding police during an hour chase and preventing a Northeast Airlines DC3 from landing.

Police dashed up and down the runway trying to halt the hedge-hopping plane but were forced to take cover as the pilot roared some 50 feet into the air on several occasions.

He was identified by police as James R. Walker, 29, of Concord, a tree worker who once held a pilot's license.

Peron Might Try To Return To Argentina

Ex-Strongman Says He's Through With Politics Until Then

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Oct. 3 (P)—Juan D. Peron implied today he plans to return someday to his Argentine homeland. Until then, he said, he is through with politics.

"I will not move a finger in political affairs, but will live a purely private life as Juan Peron," the deposed dictator said in a handwritten statement to a group of newsmen who asked an interview.

"When I do (indulge in political affairs)," he added, "I will return to my country."

Begins Life In Exile

The former Argentine strongman, who arrived here yesterday to begin a life in exile, gave no indication when he might try to go back home. He fled to the Paraguayan Embassy in Buenos Aires for asylum 14 days ago in the face of a successful revolt within the Argentine armed forces against his regime. Then he moved to a Paraguayan gunboat docked on the Buenos Aires waterfront. Because of his circumstances, Peron's political declaration or publicity "while in Paraguay."

The statement was delivered by a Paraguayan army lieutenant to newsmen keeping watch at the luxurious private home of Ricardo Goyol, an Argentine businessman living in Asuncion.

Luxurious Residence

Screened by a guard of Paraguayan police and tommygunners, Peron took up his residence in the Goyol house after his arrival by air from Buenos Aires. The house has a swimming pool and gardens. Peron's note gave no hint of how long he planned to stay there. Members of his entourage said the former President was very tired and does not plan to move for at least a week.

There have been reports that he is going to the summer resort of San Bernardino, about 30 miles from Asuncion, or to Villarrica, about 150 miles southeast of the capital. Asuncion is just across the Paraguay River from Argentine territory and the new Argentine government is reported opposed to having Peron that close.

Army Reserve Program Begins For 1,167 Youths

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (P)—The Army made a small beginning on the new national reserve program today with the start of training for 1,167 youngsters.

Among them were 672 National Guardsmen, enrolled under a provision of the reserve law which permits members of the guard to volunteer for six months training with the Army and complete their military obligation in a total of eight years. Other guardsmen must serve until they are 28.

The Army is geared to handle 5,000 six-month trainees during the last three months of this calendar year and is getting ready to take in more than 8,000 monthly starting in January.

A presidential order which authorized the services to get the reserve program under way allowed a quota of 90,000 six-month trainees for the Army and 5,500 for the Marine Corps through next June 30.

The Army said about 2,000 young men have signed up for this reserve training. Although only 495 who came through reserve units are enrolled for the starting course this month, the Army said a large number volunteered after the books were closed for the first training group. Those who missed out starting with the October class will commence training next month, the Army said.

Queen Reportedly Asked To Approve Margaret's Troth

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (P)—Time Magazine says Queen Elizabeth has been asked to approve an announcement of her sister Margaret's engagement to Peter Townsend.

Time, in its current issue out Wednesday, says Britain's Prime Minister Anthony Eden, who made a flying trip to Balmoral Castle last week, took for the Queen's approval a statement carefully prepared by the lord chancellor announcing the engagement.

Time says its report came from an "official source" and that only a few top British officials know the statement's precise contents.

Elizabeth Taylor Ill

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3 (P)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor is suffering from a gastro-intestinal ailment but is much better, her doctor said today.

Miss Taylor's husband, actor Michael Wilding, took her to the UCLA Medical Center last night after she was stricken suddenly at home in West Los Angeles.

Allen Sees Hope For Better U. S., Egypt Relations

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 3 (P)—George V. Allen emerged from a 90-minute meeting with Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser today and told reporters, "I now hope for good relations between the United States and Egypt."

The assistant U. S. secretary of state said he has now a clear understanding of Egyptian policy regarding Egypt's agreement to buy arms from Communist Czechoslovakia with rice and cotton.

"This does not mean 100 per cent agreement, but at least we can conduct our policy toward Egypt more wisely," Allen said.

Nasser announced the Czechoslovak arms deal last Tuesday. Allen flew to Cairo Friday. Observers at the time speculated he would try to dissuade Egypt from forging any ties with the Soviet bloc.

Allen told reporters Nasser showed him two alleged British and French intelligence reports which the Egyptian Premier cited in a speech yesterday as proof the Western powers were arming Israel. Allen said he read the documents "with very great interest," but declined further comment.

"Suburban Delinquency" On Rise, Conference Told

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (P)—A new kind of juvenile delinquent—the "suburban delinquent"—is on the rise in America, a government expert said today.

And the urge among many suburban parents to keep up with the Joneses is a contributing factor, Bertram M. Beck, director of the juvenile delinquency project of the U. S. Children's Bureau, told the opening of the 24th annual meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

"Most of the nation's children are reared today, he said, in steadily expanded communities of middle-class or upper-class people living in suburbs or near-suburbs of great cities.

"These are people," he declared, "on the move in a community on the move, both physically and psychologically."

"They are part of the picture of great mobility that has marked the American population since World War I. They lack deep roots in their communities. These are essentially people who are seeking a better environment for themselves and their children."

10 Russian Housing Officials On U. S. Tour

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (P)—Ten Russian housing officials started a 13-city, month-long inspection of American home building techniques today.

"Builders have no secrets," smiled the delegation leader, I. K. Kozulisa, minister of Urban Construction of the Soviet Union, as the party was met at the National Airport by officials of National Assn. of Home Builders, hosts to the visitors.

Kozulisa issued an invitation for a return visit of Americans to Russia almost as soon as the welcome was over.

French Troops, Planes Hit Back At 2,000 Rebels

RABAT, Morocco, Oct. 3 (P)—French troops supported by planes struck back hard today at an estimated 2,000 Moorish rebel horsemen in the North near the Spanish Moroccan zone and in the East along the border with Algeria.

Sketchy reports reaching here gave a picture of reinforcements swarming over the rocky mountain roads to relieve hard-pressed garrisons in the Beau Geste type forts which the French have manned since the Rif Wars of the 1920's.

Sultan Retires

The fighting broke out Saturday night a few hours after Ben Youssef's successor, Sultan Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafat, bowed to French wishes and withdrew to retirement in Morocco's international city of Tangier.

Well organized rebel command groups, each 100 men strong, made surprise attacks on three small French posts along the French-Spanish border in the Rif Mountains. The posts were abandoned, then retaken when French reinforcements arrived. Seven were reported killed, including two Europeans, and six missing at one post. Losses inflicted on the rebels were not known.

Mountain Battle Flares

As French military commanders dispatched troops to the frontier with the Spanish zone, new fighting flared on the high plateau of the Middle Atlas Mountains 65 miles southeast of the Moslem holy city of Fez, along French Morocco's eastern frontier with Algeria. The French-Moroccan garrison of Imouzzer-des-Marmoucha fought more than 18 hours to repulse an attack by hundreds of Marmoucha tribesmen.

Truman Rules Out Running For Office

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3 (P)—Former President Harry Truman said in a letter today he never again will be a candidate for public office.

David B. Roberts, prothonotary of Allegheny County, received a letter from Truman that stated: "I will never be a candidate for office again, however, because I think the younger generation should take over. Thirty years in elective public office is long enough for any man, it seems to me."

In a letter to Truman last week, Roberts said he intends to become a candidate for delegate to the Democratic presidential convention next year and will be happy to support Truman for the nomination.

George Cameron, 82, Coast Publisher, Dies

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3 (P)—George T. Cameron, who rose from paper carrier to be one of the West's leading publishers and industrialists, suffered a fatal heart attack today as his car arrived at the Chronicle, which he had headed since 1925.

The 82-year-old editor-publisher of the morning newspaper died an hour later in a hospital. A man of widespread interests, Cameron played numerous roles for the West and the nation. An active Republican and a close friend of Herbert Hoover, he was a delegate from California to every Republican national convention since 1920.

Friend Says Ike Decided Months Ago Not To Run

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (P)—A friend of President Eisenhower says the President decided several months ago—prior to his heart attack—not to run for a second term.

Leonard V. Finder, writing in Look Magazine, said the reason was a preference for retirement to private life at his farm in Gettysburg, Pa. The article was written before Eisenhower's illness.

It was to Finder, then publisher of the Manchester, N. H., Evening Leader, that Eisenhower sent a letter in 1948 announcing he would not seek the presidency that year. Finder predicted in 1951 that Eisenhower would be a candidate in 1952.

Dutch Defeated By U. N. On Issue Of New Guinea

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 3 (P)—The colonial powers suffered another setback in the United Nations today. The General Assembly overrode objections by the Netherlands and voted to take up the controversial issue of West New Guinea.

This came on the heels of an Assembly decision to debate the Algerian home rule question—an action which caused the French delegation to quit the present Assembly session.

There was no threat by the Netherlands to take similar action, but J. M. A. H. Luns, Dutch foreign minister, expressed to a reporter afterward regret at the role taken by the United States.

The United States was among 10 nations which abstained on today's vote—a 31-18 decision to adopt a recommendation of the Assembly's Steering Committee to place the question of West New Guinea on the Assembly agenda. The entire Soviet bloc voted in favor of the committee's recommendation. France was put down as absent.

Adenauer-Faure Talks

Girl Bitten By Rabid Fox While Picnicking Located

SUFFERN, N. Y., Oct. 3 (P)—To a little girl of 5 just about as furry animal is a thing to cuddle and pet.

So when Nancy Bihler instinctively reached out a hand Saturday to stroke a captivating little beast, she had no way of knowing that thereupon her life was to hang on a slender thread of circumstance.

Nancy was picnicking with her family in the Catskills when a wild fox wandered into the area near a game farm. When she tried to pet the animal, it snarled and struck with claw and fang.

The wound did not appear serious so Nancy's parents departed with no more than passing mention of the incident to a park attendant.

However, Roland Lindemann, proprietor of the game farm, led a posse in tracking down and killing the errant fox. An examination of the carcass by the state

Scientists Push Efforts To Tame Hydrogen Bomb

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (P)—Top U. S. atomic scientists are joining forces at five research centers in an effort to harness the terrific power of the hydrogen bomb for peacetime energy purposes.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission announced this today. Scientists connected with the long-range program, known as Project Sherwood, said it holds the promise of supplying mankind with all the energy it will need for all time to come.

Strauss told a news conference he is hopeful of success—perhaps within 20 years. The AEC chairman cautioned in a formal statement, however:

"Our work is in the research stage and many years of intensive effort may be required before the first prototype of an operating thermonuclear machine may be developed."

Project Started In 1951 "We have every intention of attacking as vigorously as possible the remaining problems."

He said some of the problems to be overcome are of "extreme difficulty."

Strauss disclosed that Project Sherwood, which seeks in effect to tame the terrible force unleashed when light atoms fuse, has been under way since 1951 and now is being pressed forward at:

Princeton University—Where President Harold W. Douds said the goal is "a new source of power sufficient to supply mankind's needs a thousand times over."

Other Centers Identified AEC laboratories operated by the University of California at Los Alamos, N. M., and Livermore, Calif.

Oak Ridge, Tenn.—An announcement there said scientists E. D. Shipley, John S. Luce and Albert Simon are the men in charge.

New York University—An NYU statement stressed the problems involved in creating the fantastically high temperatures—hundreds of millions of degrees Fahrenheit—that must be created and contained to bring about the fusion process.

Eisenhower Signs Memos, Note To Nixon

Condition Reported As "Satisfactory"; Specialist Relieved

DENVER, Oct. 3 (P)—President Eisenhower—cheerful again after a worrisome period of fatigue—today sent a letter to Vice President Nixon and handled another small batch of official business.

The chief executive's physicians reported his condition "satisfactory" and without complications today, whereas he didn't feel "as well as usual" last night.

Today, however, in a 10-minute business conference with his top lieutenant, Sherman Adams, Eisenhower:

1. Signed a letter to Nixon saying he hoped the vice president would continue to hold and preside at meetings of the Cabinet and National Security Council as he has done in the past during presidential absences from Washington.

2. Signed a memorandum to Secretary of Treasury Humphrey which, in effect, makes Japan a member of the General Agreement on Tariff and Trade.

Routine Memo Signed 3. Put his name on another routine memorandum authorizing John B. Hollister, director of the International Cooperation Administration, to send to six congressional committees a report which will say that no additional decisions have been made since June 30 on continuing foreign aid for various nations.

4. Approved an extension of time, from Oct. 1, to Oct. 21, for a presidential emergency board to report on a labor dispute between the Pennsylvania Railroad and 35,000 non-operating employees.

These actions were announced by Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, who told reporters that "of course" Eisenhower is cheerful.

A period of concern had set in last night when his doctors found the chief executive tired and feeling under par. The physicians, trying to determine the cause, took an X-ray of his damaged heart today to see whether there had been any enlargement. They found none.

Dr. White "Relieved" Still further evidence of presidential improvement was the half hour, Hagerty said, the chief executive spent this morning playing a picture quiz game with the help of a nurse.

And in Boston, the internationally-famed heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White, said that "I feel relieved."

He had been suspicious earlier that Eisenhower's weariness last night meant something might be wrong.

Eisenhower suffered a heart attack Saturday, Sept. 24, and still has five days to go in the first crucial two weeks the doctors consider the danger period.

The physicians attending the President at Fitzsimons Army Hospital examined their patient twice this morning, once briefly, and then more thoroughly.

New York Times Executive Dies

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (P)—Maj. Gen. Julius Ochs Adler, 62, general manager-first vice president of the New York Times and publisher-president of the Chattanooga, Tenn., Times died today of cancer.

In a lifetime of military heroism and journalistic achievement, Adler never was able to decide whether he was a soldier first or a journalist first.

"I have never been able to make up my mind," he once remarked.

A decorated hero of World War I, Adler retired from the Army in 1954 as commanding general of the 77th Infantry Division. Off and on for nearly 40 years, Adler had withdrawn from his newspaper executive duties on a temporary basis to serve his country.

President Eisenhower once referred to Adler as "a soldier's soldier."

In New Guinea during World War II, Adler came down with a kidney ailment that required surgery. It failed to slow him up to any appreciable degree and he later was pronounced fit for active field duty.

However, cancer struck him and four months ago he was operated on for that disease. He returned to his newspaper duties for two months but returned to the hospital Aug. 5.

Hall Denies Eisenhower's Illness May Force Change In GOP Convention Plans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (P)—Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall today denied reports that President Eisenhower's illness might force a change in the time and place of the GOP's nominating convention next year.

He said the reports, mentioned in a Chicago news conference earlier today by Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler, contain "no truth whatsoever."

Butler said he had read of "speculation among Republican leaders" that the GOP convention should be moved from San Francisco to Chicago.

Last spring the Republicans, confident that Eisenhower would be their candidate, selected San Francisco and the week of Aug. 20 for their National Convention.

Now that there is some question whether Eisenhower will run again, in view of his heart attack, there has been speculation the party might try to move up its nominating convention to an earlier date so that the standard bearer, if it should be some one other than Eisenhower, would have more time to campaign.

Hall was interviewed for a transcribed radio broadcast. He again refused to be drawn into speculation over the effects of Eisenhower's illness.

He said it would be "wholly inappropriate" for him to discuss in any way whether Eisenhower will or will not be a candidate. The President "himself will determine" whether his health will permit him to run, he said.

Hall was asked whether former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York might step back into the national political picture as a candidate. Dewey, now a New York attorney, was twice defeated as the Republican standard bearer.

He praised Dewey's record but stopped there. In answer to questions, however, he did say that next year's GOP ticket would far more likely be Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon than Eisenhower and Dewey.

FBI Boss Hits Curbs On Law Enforcement

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3 (P)—J. Edgar Hoover said today that law-abiding citizens must mobilize to help "take the handcuffs off law enforcement."

The director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation told the 62nd annual Assn. of Chiefs of Police that the crime picture in the United States is a "national disgrace" and declared the problem is primarily a youth problem.

"Law enforcement," he said, "has not yet attained the measure of public support it justly deserves." "The law-abiding citizen should uphold the cause of law and order against the mobsters who cry 'shame' every time a gangster is shot to death in a gun battle."

"He should not turn his back when some law enforcement officer is shot in the back by some 'mad dog' who frequently has escaped from a dilapidated jail or has been released by some soft-hearted judge, or has been paroled by some 'mauling parole board,' or has been pardoned."

The FBI chief said there is a real need to make it impossible for the "mouthpiece of the underworld to effect delays by quibbling over words and technicalities."

Convict Escapes On Garbage Truck But Is Recaptured

BREATHESVILLE, Oct. 3 (P)—A Baltimore inmate at the reformatory who rode to freedom on a garbage truck was captured last night about 12 hours after his latest escape from a Maryland institution.

Calvin E. Lee, 16-year-old Negro sentenced to 10 years for burglary, was caught about a mile from the Reformatory for Males. He had been at the reformatory since February of last year.

Previously he went absent without leave from boys' Village six times, vanished from a cell at a Baltimore police station and was stopped within sight of freedom after he and a group of other prisoners dug 12 inches through a courthouse lockup wall.

Dodge Power Output Upped

DETROIT, Oct. 3 (P)—Chrysler's Dodge Division will introduce its 1956 model cars, with new styling, increased engine power and push button drive selectors, on Oct. 7.

Forward pointing body shapes, with tapering hood and front fenders and high-sweep rear fender tail fins give a slimmness of line in styling.

The Dodge line for 1956 is being offered in four separate series, the Coronet, the Royal V-8, the Custom Royal V-8 and the Suburban, a station wagon series. The Coronet and the Suburban models are available in six or eight cylinder models.

Top power output of the V-8 engines has been stepped up to 230 with four barrel carburetor, dual exhaust system and special manifold. Without the optional carburetor equipment, horsepower is rated at 218.

Youth Fatally Shot By Son Of Jockey

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Oct. 3 (P)—Charles Franklin Pringle, 17-year-old high school senior, was fatally shot today in a fruit orchard here by a friend who said he didn't mean to do it.

Police said there would be a coroner's inquest Wednesday into the death of the youth.

They said he was with 17-year-old Anthony Palumbo, son of jockey Sammy Palumbo, when the shooting occurred.

Police said each boy had a rifle. Palumbo told officers his gun was accidentally discharged. The slug from his rifle hit Pringle in the chest.

Palumbo collapsed and was under the care of a doctor after the accident.

233-Year-Old House Moved Successfully

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 3 (P)—The sidewalk superintendents had a field day here today.

Hundreds of them lined the narrow streets of Maryland's capital to watch a 233-year-old house make a six-block move successfully despite predictions of the more skeptical that it would probably fall apart.

The day-long object of their interest was the weatherbeaten old Carroll-Davis house, birthplace of Charles Carroll the barrister, a revolutionary patriot who wrote Maryland's Declaration of Rights.

The house had been saved from wrecking crews through a $20,000 fund-raising drive but had to be relocated on the St. John's College Campus to make way for a new business on Main Street.

Throngs of early onlookers started forming at 6 a.m. when movers started rolling the two story frame house with brick ends onto Main Street from the lot it had stood on more than two centuries.

The House was securely bound and strapped to a heavy steel frame on rubber wheels which trucks towed slowly, almost tortuously at times, up a 10-degree incline toward Church Circle. It towered 45 feet resting atop the dollies.

Nationalists On Way To Indonesia Victory

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Oct. 3 (P)—The Nationalist "Proletarian Front" tonight appeared headed for a smashing victory in Indonesia's first parliamentary elections.

Its vote, mostly in Java alone, snowballed near the six million mark, with margins over three other major parties ranging up to two million.

The Nationalists, whose basic policies dovetail with those of the Indonesian Communists, seem sure to capture a majority of the Parliament's 260 seats. Java, the most populous of the republic's 3,000 islands, has 168 seats.

Budget Conference Held By McKeldin And Rennie

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3 (P)—Gov. McKeldin and his aides sat down with Budget Director James G. Rennie today to tackle the new state budget the governor will present to the Legislature next February.

Their conference in Rennie's office here was the first of numerous and frequent shirt-sleeve sessions the executive staff will put in before the big spending bill is ready for the printers in December of January.

Regardless of any pruning to be done between now and then, the budget is expected to soar to a record high—in the neighborhood of 300 million dollars.

Advance indications point to department requests averaging 10 per cent more than in the current year's 274 million dollar budget, which is Maryland's highest spending figure to date.

There are also indications that after the pruning as much as 30 million dollars may have to be raised through increased taxes to balance the new budget.

Church Conference

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Oct. 3 (P)—Church school workers of the Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church attended a dinner tonight on the eve of the conference's annual meeting.

Now, additional thousands of men, women and children who might never have met life on an equal footing with others, may truly enjoy the blessings of better hearing.

Council Tables Golden Lane Sewage Plan

An ordinance which would have started machinery rolling toward sewerage the westerly side of Golden Lane was tabled for a week by the Mayor and Council yesterday pending a full report by the Health Department.

Tabling of the ordinance providing for notice to property owners of the city's plans came after Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz said he was not in favor because (1) one resident had connected to the Willowbrook Road sewer and the owner shouldn't have to pay a second time, and (2) the city has to be sure it will get its money back. The sewer account is "pretty hungry," Buchholz said, adding he understood some residents in the section had said they would not pay for the sewer.

The area concerned received city water a short time ago.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said a group had requested action on a sewer in 1951 and had been promised relief. He added something should be done.

Buchholz said he believed at the time, residents wanted a sewer but didn't want to pay for it. He said he "feels sorry for them" but the city had to be sure it got its money back.

Eves answered he felt sorry for the city, sorry because it harbors an unsanitary condition.

It was explained that under normal conditions, cost of sewerage is assessed by the front foot. In recent years, the city has been getting good returns from these assessments after the levy is set.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan told Buchholz he appreciated his position but felt the city should have the sewer. City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson added that a lot of outlying places do not have sewers.

Eves said it is "time to wake up" and added he would like to see some action to eliminate a hazard to health. Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, and C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, pointed out that most residents of the lane have septic tanks and Nuzum said a recent check showed two outdoor privies.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long, said it looked like a two-fold problem to him. One, he continued, would be the sewage problem with the Health Department bringing in line any violator. The other would be the question of where the city would get $8,500 to do the work on its own.

Eves asked Dr. Frantz to make a survey and give council a full report.

Lovejoy Quits Regents Board

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 2 (AP) — Dr. Arthur O. Lovejoy, blaming the "physical infirmities incident to the age which I have now reached," has resigned from the University of Maryland Board of Regents.

And Gov. McKeldin has accepted "with sincere regret."

McKeldin told the 81-year-old former Johns Hopkins University professor: "Your close attention to the often strenuous duties of the regentship and your constant devotion to the academic advancement of the university have been a source of comfort to me and a magnificent contribution to the progress of a great institution of learning."

Lovejoy, in his letter to McKeldin, lauded the university board as "a group of high minded and public spirited colleagues" who he said "never appeared to be dictated by either personal or partisan political considerations."

He had served as a regent since the spring of 1951, when his appointment was accompanied by many raised eyebrows. Some persons speculated that with his background in philosophy and the classics, he might attempt to have the university concentrate more in this field and less in vocational teaching.

Beta Omicron Plans Annual Rush Season

LUKE—Beta Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, held its regular meeting a recent evening in the Luke Fire Hall, with President Katherine Crawford, reading correspondence from the International Endowment Fund, from the Clarksburg convention chairman regarding the fall convocation to be held October 15 and 16, and from a note from Margie Lee Hadden.

Plans were formulated for the regular fall rushing season that will include a formal party for new pledges to be held October 6, at "Herman Room" in Cumberland. Pledges are also invited to attend the Model meeting October 13.

Irene Twigg, chapter parliamentarian, gave a drill which will be given at the beginning of each sorority year. She called attention to a telegram received by the Torch, which had a message from President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The program, "Your Day Socially," from the program book, "Conduct, Expression, Purpose," was presented by Katherine Richards, assisted by Virginia Smith and Matilda Fisher. The program director spoke on the do's and don'ts of tablesetting, discussing the harmony of balance, proportion, settings and color. C&A Gas Co. Brings In Large Well In Randolph County ELKINS—The Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company has encountered a flow of one and one-quarter million feet of natural gas in its Sloan Estate Power Farm No. 1 well in western Middle Fork District.

The well, the first production brought in by C. and A. in Randolph County, is located on Hyer Lick Run, a tributary of Long Run, just south of the Long Run Church. The company is an affiliate of the Columbia System.

The Sloan well, the report said, came in with a showing of upward of one million feet and was rated in the one and one-quarter-million-foot class, natural flow, when drilled through the Fifth Sand.

The same source reported that C. and A. has encountered a gas flow of 100,000 feet in the Leatherman Farm No. 1 well, about one mile west, or northwest, of the newly-developed Sloan well. Operators experienced in the field have expressed the opinion that the Leatherman well should make a good commercial well from the Fifth Sand by the application of chemical treatment. It is reported, however, that before being treated in the Fifth Sand, the well is being drilled on down to test the Benson Sand which is a deep well producer in Upshur County.

C. and A. has recently started drilling on the Zickafosse tract between its Leatherman and Sloan wells.

Georges Creek Region Retired Miner Raises Tobacco In His Home Garden

By MARIE MERRBAUGH News Correspondent

LONACONING—It is not unusual to find tobacco growing in Maryland, as this state produces some of the finest leaf grown anywhere. But it is unusual to find anyone cultivating and growing good leaf tobacco here in Western Maryland's mountains.

However, Thomas Jones, popularly known as "Tom", had quite a nice crop of leaf tobacco this year in his home garden plot at Pekin. He has the tobacco strung across his porch to dry, and the crop has attracted considerable attention. "Tom" doesn't raise tobacco for market, and what he raises he uses himself or gives to his friends. A Spanish-American War veteran, Mr. Jones is retired and spends much time in his garden. He raises all types of vegetables, and has been very successful with his tobacco crop as well as with both watermelons and canteloupes.

One of his specialties is flowers, and each year, neighbors and friends go to him for flowers for Memorial Day and special events. Despite his 69 years, he is an able piano player, and frequently entertains his friends with old-time, modern, and pop tunes on the piano.

A retired miner and accustomed to working with a shovel, Mr. Jones says he does all his tilling and cultivating with a shovel, spade and hoe. He has never used a plow or automatic equipment, and prefers to work his soil and cultivate his plants by hand.

After his tobacco was ready to harvest this season, he placed the leaves on the floor of an unused upstairs bedroom, leaving all the windows open so it would dry properly. As each layer of leaves dries, he adds another from the crop, strung on the porch.

Mr. Jones is right proud of his

Provides Material On Conservation

LONACONING — Kendrick Y. Hodgdon, science instructor at Valley High School, who was one of the major contributors to the production of the "Handbook for Teaching Conservation and Resource-Use" which has just been published, received one of the first copies this week.

Dr. Richard L. Weaver, project leader, directed the collection of the material for the Handbook by the National Association of Biology teachers since 1951. Dr. Weaver is project leader of the School of Natural Resources of the University of Michigan.

The four-year project was financed by a grant from the American Nature Association. The book is available through the office of Dr. Weaver, P. O. Box 2073, Ann Arbor, Mich., with proceeds derived from the sales to be used by the National Committee to continue its conservation education activities in the various states. The natural resources are expertly described by teachers in the 500 page illustrated book.

The publication was prepared by two hundred teachers from thirty states and shows how they have incorporated conservation and resource-use teaching into the schools. The "How To Do It Stories" and eighty-two pictures will help teachers and youth leaders to develop such projects as school forests, gardens, camps, wildlife sanctuaries, outdoor laboratories, nature trails and museums.

Call Of The Country May Hurt Farmer

Growing trend among city folk—wage earners and executives alike—toward quiet rural living while continuing their jobs in the city has come under scrutiny of Farm Journal magazine. The findings are that for the most part everybody's happy, but there are reasons to suppose that in some cases it is the farmer who suffers.

For the man whose roots have long been deep in the soil the first thing lost is the old neighborliness. The custom of many areas for farmers to trade work is gone when a man's neighbors are not working farmers like himself.

Another problem is the readiness with which newcomers from the cities will vote bond issues for the new schools their children make necessary. And it is not unusual for the transplants to move, leaving others to carry the load. And where refugees from the city settle close enough together, such conveniences as sewers, water mains and police and fire protection come into demand.

As a result a farmer may find his taxes jumping even more than he might hope his stocks would rise. The result could be that the farmer gives up and moves to the city.

Thus the city dweller moving to the country is a factor in the decision of some farmers to seek a new way of life. An interesting conjecture is how many generations might be expected to pass before descendants of the transplanted farmers tire of city life and heed the call back to the farm.

There, presumably, they in turn would be factors leading descendants of the original migrants from the city to trek back to the places from whence their fathers moved.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Candidates Galore

President Eisenhower's illness has opened the door to a galaxy of candidates in both parties. The Democrats had been uncertain as to whether any Democrat could win and the question was who would be willing to offer himself to run for a loss. Stevenson, Harriman and Kefauver seemed to be the only candidates available with Harriman in the lead. Now that there is a definite possibility of the Democrats winning in 1956, the campaign is wide open. More and more the name of Governor Frank Lausche is heard and for second place, it is clear that the Southerners will insist on a candidate and the name of Governor Frank Clement of Tennessee is constantly being heard.

Among the Republicans, three California names assert themselves. Vice President Richard Nixon, Senator William Knowland, and Chief Justice Earl Warren. From now on a number of other names will be mentioned, including Thomas E. Dewey who has twice run and been defeated and Harold Stassen who is always a candidate, for what reason no one can say.

Richard Nixon has the advantage of being vice president on the verge of the Presidency by disability, resignation or death. Not even a physician can, at this moment, foretell with any assurance that the President will live during the next 15 months although many who have had coronary thromboses survive to be very active men. Mr. Roosevelt was President and ran for a fourth term after he had more severe difficulties with his heart than President Eisenhower has suffered.

Should Richard Nixon take over the Presidency, he will probably be nominated. The story from Washington is that in the White House entourage Sherman Adams, who is most effective, is protecting President Eisenhower's prerogatives and that he has prevented the formation of a cabal to manipulate politically in the President's name. The report is that the cabal that was forming included Harold Stassen, Nelson Rockefeller and Milton Eisenhower. As it stands, Richard Nixon has the inside track.

Chief Justice Earl Warren has publicly stated that he will not run for elective office. In his present position, he cannot lift a finger to indicate that he intends to run. It is noteworthy that his name is being brought forward not by Republicans but by New Deal columnists who have never favored a Republican candidate for the Presidency. This does considerable damage to Warren's standing with Republicans. It is not believed by Republican professionals that his chances are very good or that they should be.

Senator William Knowland represents the views of the major elements within the party. He could be accepted by those Eisenhower Republicans who do not favor Nixon and by those Taft Republicans who do not forget that Senator Taft selected Knowland as his successor. Knowland's chances are on a par with Nixon's in a free convention.

Harold Stassen is not taken seriously by professional Republicans although he continues to have a following in the rank and file of the party. While it has been assumed that President Eisenhower has favored Nixon, it is no secret that he has also favored Stassen. On the other hand, when, some time ago, Stassen tried to push into Dulles's position as secretary of state, the President protected Dulles and turned down proposals to replace him with Stassen. His candidacy is not being taken seriously.

Some time ago, Roscoe Drummond, a columnist close to the White House, proposed Dr. Milton Eisenhower as the President's successor. The proposal proved to be a dud. At that time it was not known that the President was a cardiac who had already consulted specialists, including a distinguished New York physician. Now that the President's illness is a public fact, the name of Milton Eisenhower is again heard. But it is not being taken seriously within the Republican party in which he has never been active. In fact, he is generally assumed to be closer to the crowd in the Democratic party headed by Adlai Stevenson, as he was long associated with the Roosevelt and Truman administrations. The form of nepotism represented by this suggestion has never been popular in American political life, although some American widows have succeeded their dead husbands in the House of Representatives.

This is where the excitement has gone thus far. Between now and next July, this picture will change many times, particularly as a result of Tom Dewey's manipulations.

"Russia's Always Willing To Sell You Arms"

West Has Chance To Take Initiative In Cold War

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — At last the "cold war" has reached a climax in which the Western nations can once more take the initiative. The withdrawal of France from the current sessions of the United Nations Assembly in New York marks the emergence of the West from the anesthetic of fancied security administered last July by the Russians at Geneva.

For now the mask has been torn away and the Communists have been revealed as the organizers inside the United Nations of an anti-Western bloc of Asian and Arab nations growing out of the Bandung conference. The vote of 28 to 27 in the United Nations Assembly to throw open to discussion what France considers an internal problem—the disaffection in her colony in Algeria—means that by a majority vote of nations many of which are under totalitarian rule or control, the United States, Great Britain and France have been defeated and made to appear as opposed only to the discussion of the question instead of its implications as a precedent.

Emphasize Double Standard

But on the very same day Moscow was proclaiming her right to sell arms to Egypt and was declaring that any effort to thwart the sale is an interference with the internal affairs of Egypt. Such hypocrisy emphasizes the double standard practiced by the Soviets in trying to get the Algerian issue aired in the United Nations. Antoine Pinay, foreign minister of France, wisely withdrew his delegation. What's more, this correspondent is informed that M. Pinay doesn't intend to go to Moscow this month as planned and neither does Premier Edgar Faure.

The French delegation will go to Geneva for the Big Four Foreign Ministers' conference but this is in conformity with the desire to present a united front along with great Britain and the United States as against Soviet Russia.

France is 100 per cent right in her attitude in pulling out of the U. N. sessions. For the U. N. must never be used by a bloc of nations as an instrument of controversy that can provoke a war.

M. Pinay has a wonderful opportunity to turn the tables on the Russians. He might agree, indeed, to the principle of discussion of Algeria or any other problem of that kind in North Africa if it can be demonstrated that the peace of the world is threatened there, which, of course, is not true. But at the same time the French foreign minister might insist that if the principle of discussing internal affairs is applied, it should be first considered with respect to those nations which have already won their independence and proved themselves capable of self-government but which have lost their liberties and their sovereignty due to usurpation of control by Moscow and by the international Communist party.

Fall Prey To Reds

Certainly there is little use talking about granting freedom to small colonies in North Africa if, when they get their independence, as in the case of Egypt, they immediately fall prey to the Communist influence in the world and thus increase rather than diminish tension. This has just happened between Egypt and Israel. As long as Communist totalitarianism exists, the world hasn't been made safe for any democracy.

If the United Nations moreover is to remain true to the principles of its charter it must make sure that all countries which are members are free from threats of aggression. Inevitably Soviet Russia as an aggressor comes up for trial herself. Her records in instigating the Korean War and then in brazenly sending arms and supplies to the Chinese Communists so they could intervene against the United Nations in that war is well known.

The world would have an opportunity to discuss all these subjects if the French government chose now to accept the principle of discussion on condition that priority is given to the many instances of frustration by Moscow of nationalist aspirations in the countries behind the Iron Curtain. Certainly if

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

It's neatly possible the rest of the country is getting over-stuffed with New York's private World Series.

Until they combine the pop bottle with the boomerang it looks like it will stay that way. Manhattan is a city of perfectionists that ran Leo Durocher out of town for finishing third.

The Dodgers threaten to transfer to Jersey City which already has big league bingo, no state tax on cigarettes and an Arthur Murray dance school.

Duke Snider said the Brooklyn fans didn't deserve a pennant winner. Next season the Duke will be the only centerfielder wearing a catcher's mask on the back of his head.

But baseball is up in the chip rack for the winter. The deck is still being shuffled but there will be no deals until December.

The managers who finished worse than fourth are like the old vaudevillian in a Topeka boarding-house on Monday morning. A tornado picked up the shack and gave it a whirl. He stuck his head through the attic window and yelled, "Don't send your laundry out."

Eisenhower's Heart Doctor Pleaded For Additional Funds For Research

By Drew Pearson

Italy, Sardinia, and Southern Africa.

"These studies are likely to be even more important for the citizens of the United States than for anybody else in the world," Dr. White declared. "but very few funds are available. In fact, I myself had to draw on a small private coronary heart research fund and on my own pocketbook."

Senate Has A Heart

Dr. White literally begged the senators to approve the stepped-up 1956 budget of $24,318,000 for the National Heart Institute that had been recommended by a group of distinguished citizens.

Senator Hill listened to Dr. White's plea and acted. He increased the money for heart research almost to the figure urged by the Boston specialist—namely to $23,800,000. Then the appropriation went to the House of Representatives where Congressman John Tabor, New York Republican, is proud of the meat ax he wields over appropriation bills.

Tabor let down with his ax. Assisting him in the axing was a Democrat who normally has been a good friend of medical research, John Fogarty of Rhode Island. When they got through chopping the Senate medical bill, the heart fund was down to within a million and a half of the figure originally set by Mrs. Hobby—$11,278,000.

Dr. White couldn't help but remember this as he flew in a special White House plane to Denver.

Political Pipeline

All summer, White House aides have been discouraging visitors from calling on the President. Even prominent senators, who wanted to stop by Denver, have been given a polite brush-off. Now word has gone out that the President will see absolutely no one except on urgent government business at least until next January. . . . Val Washington, the Negro in charge of racial relations for the Republicans, is trying to fire 10 Negro holdovers from the Democratic administration and replace them with loyal Republican Negroes. All 10 are working as consultants to the Federal Housing Administration on racial problems. Washington has actually written to the Civil Service Commission, asking how he can legally get rid of them. . . . GOP National Chairman Len Hall has been badgering the White House to fire General Services boss Ed Mansure. (He hasn't cleaned out enough Democrats). . . . Postal inspectors are investigating a rash of anonymous smear letter attacking the Red Cross. They believe the culprit is a prominent public-relations man in Washington.

Tax Collecting Must Be Dignified

The prize for pomposity in government goes to Tax Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews, or, as he wants to be called, "the commissioner of internal revenue." He has just warned all employees not to use "IRS" as an abbreviation for Internal Revenue Service. It's beneath the "dignity and importance of this agency," he says.

Andrews even issued an official order which reads:

"Memorandum to all employees:

"There seems to be a tendency on the part of some of our people to make an 'alphabetical agency' of the Internal Revenue Service. In several instances that have recently come to my attention, the letters 'IRS' are used to identify the service. This practice should cease at once. Alphabetical designations have often been applied to temporary agencies of the government, but it is not in keeping with the dignity and importance of this agency to refer to it in such fashion.

"The full title, 'Internal Revenue Service', or the abbreviated titles 'Revenue Service' or 'Service' should be used in all correspondence and other material originating in the Internal Revenue Service.

"T. COLEMAN ANDREWS

"Commissioner."

Remember when you fill out your income-tax forms that your taxes are being collected by a very serious and dignified man.

A Traitor's Advice

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON There was an inconclusive but rather fascinating little episode in the famous Bolshoi Theater in Moscow some months ago.

An American lady who had known the British traitor, Donald Maclean, before he went over to the Soviets was having supper in the restaurant during the intermission of the opera. She glanced across the crowded restaurant and suddenly her eyes met Maclean's. They looked at each other for a long moment and then the lady turned to her escort, to draw his attention. She looked back again almost immediately but Maclean—or was it his ghost?—had magically disappeared.

The episode is worth recalling if only because it was the first indication of what has now been confirmed as a solid, and significant, fact. The recent British White Paper on the case of Maclean and his fellow traitor, Guy Burgess, is undoubtedly based on hard intelligence. It has confirmed that Maclean and Burgess are indeed living in or near Moscow.

Advisers To Soviet

At the time of the incident at the opera, it was only suspected that this was so. It was also only suspected that the two men were playing some sort of role in the making of Soviet policy. Now this too has been confirmed, also by the White Paper, which states unequivocally that both men have been serving since their defection as "advisers to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and other Soviet agencies."

It is interesting to speculate on the kind of advice they may have given. Burgess is a fool. But Maclean is highly intelligent, however neurotic. Moreover, he knows this country well, having served here, and having also headed the American department in the British Foreign Office.

He is no doubt highly regarded by his Soviet masters—they went to great trouble to get him safely away when his treachery was at last suspected. So it is reasonable to suppose that his advice is listened to with respect.

Imaginary Advice

Let us therefore, imagine that Maclean is addressing a gathering of influential Soviet policy makers. Might he not speak along somewhat the following lines?

"Comrades, I submit that in the past our leadership has gravely underestimated the effect on the bourgeois mentality of trivialities and superficial appearances. Permit me to cite two examples.

"First, I propose that our ambassador in Great Britain should develop a seemingly overpowering passion for roses. Such is the emotional attachment of vast numbers of the British bourgeoisie and lumpen proletariat for these flowers that the ambassador's roses will, I assure you, greatly stimulate the existing impulse in Britain to abandon the costly rearmament program.

"Second, I propose that a press campaign strongly praising corn be initiated here. In the United States, especially in the key Middle Western area, corn elicits much the same emotional response as do roses in Britain. There are numerous songs in praise of corn, widely sung in America, comparing its height, for example, to that of an elephant's eye.

"As soon as it can be arranged, a delegation should be sent to America ostensibly to learn the American method of growing corn. For the benefit of the American press photographers, members of the delegation should frequently pose regarding corn with evident admiration and even on occasion embracing a particularly vigorous stalk.

"Delegation members should also take every opportunity to achieve a sympathetic identification with such other American imperialist institutions as the game of golf and women with unnaturally long legs.

Suggests Some Dangers

"I assure you, comrades, that such trivial gestures will have a profound effect upon the Western bourgeois mentality, greatly to our advantage. For the more sophisticated imperialists, more serious but no more costly gestures will also, of course, be required.

"I suggest as an initial program the negotiation of a peace treaty with Austria, the normalization of our relations with Yugoslavia anew and, perhaps, the evacuation of the Porkkala naval base, since this can be re-occupied at a moment's notice. Some such program will give us precisely the breathing space we need in order decisively to surpass American nuclear warfare capabilities, the only area in which the Western imperialists maintain a continued superiority."

The foregoing is not, of course, an entirely serious attempt to reconstruct the advice Maclean has given the Soviet Foreign Office. And although it is believed in knowledgeable quarters that Maclean's advice may genuinely have affected the Soviet foreign policy line, it is of course silly to suppose that Maclean alone is the author of recent changes in that line. Yet the foregoing may at least serve to suggest some of the dangers to the West that may lurk in the new era of Soviet smiles. It is well to remember, at least, that one day the smiles may disappear as suddenly as did Donald Maclean, that night at the opera.

Hormones Provide Relief In Ulcerative Colitis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Inflammatory diseases of the colon (Colitis) are produced by a variety of micro-organisms as well as by nervous disorders. Some of the headlines are bacillary dysentery, typhoid fever, cholera, and irritable colon. But the most miserable is ulcerative colitis, a bowel disorder that has long defied the medical profession.

The cause has escaped detection, despite a lifetime of research by our most competent physicians. But the outlook has improved with newer methods of treatment. Many sufferers are snatched from the jaws of death through the use of ACTH or cortisone. Others can return to work and normal living after surgery.

Ulcerative colitis usually develops for no apparent reason. It starts with loss of appetite, vague abdominal distress, and a bloody mucous discharge. As the condition gains momentum, diarrhea becomes more severe and there may be 15 to 20 stools a day. Cramping is marked.

In more severe cases, the course of the disease is rapid and acute. Diarrhea may be continuous and the patient has fever, weakness, anemia, and profound debility. The bowel wall is riddled with ulcers. Unless diarrhea is checked, the outcome is grave. It is here that cortisone or ACTH is life-saving.

These hormones are not specific remedies but they bring the temperature down to normal, reduce toxemia, and increase appetite and sense of well being. These results are exemplified in a report from England on a group of 210 ulcerative colitis patients. For six weeks, half the number were given cortisone and the remainder, a dummy preparation.

Two out of every five on cortisone were free from symptoms within six weeks compared with more than one in six to whom the inert product was administered. Those who received the hormone earlier in the course of the disease responded dramatically, demonstrating the value of early treatment. But these persons were not necessarily cured.

In addition to the hormones, the patients were kept in bed and

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Joe Terrell sends in a story that goes all the way back to another Joe—Miller—and that is printed today in the hope nobody else will go to the trouble of mailing it to "Try and Stop Me" for another fortnight, anyhow:

First citizen: Say, Herb, how did that ruckus with your wife come out last night? The whole town could hear you two giving each other what-for!

Second citizen: Aw, there was nothing to it. Inside of five minutes I had her coming to me on hands and knees.

First citizen: Do tell! What did she say?

Second citizen: She said, "Come out from under that bed, you contemptible coward."

The boss had dined with Wilkins and his bride. The following morning he observed, "That's a fine, hard-working wife you've got, Wilkins!"

"I sure have," agreed Wilkins. "I only wish I had a couple more like her!"

Yankees Even Series, Triumph 5-1 Behind Whitey Ford

5-Run First Inning Hands Dodgers Loss

Bill Skowron Hits 3-Run Homers; Byrne, Podres Hurl Today

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Whitey Ford threw a brilliant four-hitter at Brooklyn today after the New York Yankees clobbered rookie Karl Spooner for five runs in the first inning today to square the World Series with a 5-1 "must" victory in the sixth game at Yankee Stadium.

The money - playing Yanks, backed against the walls of their own spacious park by three defeats in Brooklyn's chummy field, assured this series of a seventh game before it was started.

Two walks, two singles and a sliced three-run homer, about 350 feet into the lower right - field stands, left the Dodgers five runs behind before Manager Walter Alston got his 24-year-old lefthander out of action. After that it was up to Ford, whose lefthanded pitches had won the series opener.

Ford Effort Steady
Ford was up to the job, turning in a steady effort that surpassed his earlier start when he had to be relieved in the ninth.

Dodger hopes received a cruel blow in the third inning when Duke Snider, the home run hero of the series with four in the first five games, had to leave the lineup because his left knee "popped" as he chased an outfield fly by Bill Skowron.

Snider's injury was not known to the 64,000 fans or reporters until Don Zimmer came up to bat for the center fielder in the fourth. A clubhouse check showed he must have stepped into a hole in the outfield.

It wasn't known immediately whether Snider would be available for the final game.

All even at three victories each, the clubs came up to tomorrow's crucial game with a pair of lefthanded pitchers - Tommy Byrne, the 35-year-old star of the second game for the Yanks, and Johnny Podres, the 23-year-old speedster who got Brooklyn on the win path in the third.

Spomer In Trouble
Spomer was in trouble with the first man he faced. He walked Phil Rizzuto on a 3-2 pitch. As Billy Martin struck out Rizzuto stole second. Then Gil McDougald walked. Yogi Berra singled into center field, scoring Rizzuto. Hank Bauer grounded a single to left, driving in McDougald.

With two runs across the plate and two men on, Manager Walter Alston let Spooner stay in to pitch to Bill Skowron. The husky first baseman fouled off two pitches and then sliced a fly ball into the lower stands in right field, about four rows back.

Russ Meyer blanked the Yanks for 5 2-3 innings and Eddie Roebuck took them through the last two without another run.

Ford never got into too much trouble. When he did, fine defensive work by McDougald and Joe Collins lifted him out of danger.

Collins Makes Best Play
Brooklyn ruined the 26-year-old New Yorker's shutout in the fourth when Pee Wee Reese singled, Roy Campanella walked and Carl Furillo drove in Reese with a ground single into left field.

Perhaps the finest defensive play of the day was a stab by Collins of a ball hit by Reese in the seventh with men on first and third and two out. His stop and throw to Rizzuto forced Gilliam and ended the inning. Manager Casey Stengel had inserted Collins into the lineup to bat for the right-handed hitting Skowron in the fifth inning.

Skowron's homer was the only long blow of this sixth game but it tied a record as it was the 17th of the series by both clubs. The Yanks and Dodgers also hit 17 in 1953.

Set Double Play Mark
Two double plays, one by each club, lifted the two teams to a series record of 17, one more than Cincinnati and Chicago White Sox in 1919.

Among the individual records was Berra's feat of catching his 39th series game, topping Bill Dickey's total of 38. It was Rizzuto's 51st series game, tying Joe DiMaggio's all-time record for 10 series. Little Phil is playing his ninth.

Yanks Are Favored By 7-5 To Win

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—The New York Yankees are 7-5 favorites to win their 21st World Series in tomorrow's seventh game with Brooklyn at Yankee Stadium.

The Yanks originally were favored to win but the price shifted to Brooklyn and lengthened to 13-5 last night after the Dodgers swept their third straight at Ebbets Field.

New York had been favored to win today's game 6-5.

Series Weather

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Ideal weather for the final game of the World Series at Yankee Stadium tomorrow was forecast tonight.

The Weather Bureau said it'll be fair with temperatures around 70s.

ALSTON BEGINS WALK AS SKOWRON SCORES—Dodger manager Walter Alston begins his long walk to the mound from the Brooklyn dugout to jerk Karl Spooner in the first inning of yesterday's World Series game at Yankee Stadium. The decision was made for the unhappy pilot by Bill Skowron, who is seen scoring following his three-run home run, in a five-run Yankee outburst in the frame. Greeting Skowron at the plate is Bob Cerv, 41, the next Yankee batter and Yogi Berra, Yanks catcher who scored ahead of Skowron on the long blast. At the center is Dodger catcher Roy Campanella. Bell Confers With Kiesling

Steelers Coach Berated Officials

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3 (AP)—National Football League Commissioner Bert Bell said tonight he held a telephone "hearing" today with Pittsburgh Steeler Coach Walt Kiesling regarding the latter's conduct in the Los Angeles game yesterday and that the case was now "under consideration."

Bell said he had wired Kiesling to appear in the commissioner's Philadelphia office in person tomorrow or contact him by telephone regarding reports that the Pittsburgh coach had berated officials during yesterday's game which the Steelers lost, 27-26, in the closing moments of the contest.

Steelers efforts were hampered by a number of adverse calls and at one point the club was penalized 15 yards when Kiesling jostled linesman James Underhill.

Bell added that there also had been no complaints from anyone regarding the handling of the game by the officials.

He said that in considering Kiesling's conduct, two factors would guide his judgment. The first, Bell said, was the best interests of professional football and the other was "Kiesling's long and faithful service to the game as well as his unblemished record up to the present instance."

Under the NFL code, Kiesling is liable for a fine up to $2,000 or suspension for life.

West Virginia Again Leads So. Conference In Offense

Mountaineers Have Won Title Twice

RICHMOND, Oct. 3 (AP)—West Virginia, which led the Southern Conference in total offense for the past two seasons, apparently is bent on making it three in a row. The undefeated Mountaineers, getting off to a great start, have compiled a whopping average of 473.5 yards per game to take a comfortable lead in the total offense race.

Pappy Lewis' nationally-ranked crew has more than a 160-yard bulge on runner-up Richmond, according to the Southern Conference's official statistics released today. The Mountaineers also lead in passing offense and rushing defense.

The early-season offensive showdown is almost entirely a West Virginia-Richmond affair. The Spiders, who last year called defense their specialty, lead in rushing offense with a 249.3 yard average and also in punting with a 39.6 yard average.

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 3 — A 22-yard pass from Eddie Cecil to Ronnie Dick in the end zone with about five minutes to play broke a 7-7 deadlock and gave the Allegany High Campers a thrilling 14-7 victory over the Hagerstown Hubs here tonight in Packet stadium.

The winning touchdown for Coach Roy Lester's charges was set up when Hagerstown was forced to punt from its own two following a fumble. Cecil returned Roger Kiesel's kick to the Hubs 24 where Don Perdue picked up two yards to the 22.

Then quarterback Don Paye pitched out to Cecil in the flat and the left-handed halfback tossed to Dick in the end zone for the winning score.

The loss was the first of the season for Coach Mel Henry's Hubs who had won two games and tied one prior to tonight. It was the second consecutive victory for the unbeaten Lesters.

After a scoreless first half Allegany broke the scoring ice when Pete Charuba picked up Hagerstown fumble on the Allegany 45 and raced 55 yards down the sidelines for the initial touchdown. Bob Fletcher added the point from placement to make it 7-0.

Following Mike Lease's punt to the Hubs 12, the Henrymen put on a sustained march as the third quarter ended and went to the Allegany 25 early in the fourth stanza. From here Kiesel made eight to the Campers 25 and picked up a first on the 23. After Barker lost three to the 23 two plays later Kiesel pitched out to Roy Stotler who tossed a 23-yard scoring pass to end Monte Johnstone who caught the aerial in the end zone. Dale Ebersole's placement tied the score at 7-7.

Helis Announces Helioscope Is Retired To Stud

4-Year-Old Set Five Marks, Won $418,275

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 3 — William G. Helis, Jr., noted New Orleans sportsman, today announced the retirement to stud of Helioscope, holder of five track records and earnings of $418,275.

Helioscope has been one of America's top ranking four year olds and is considered a candidate for "horse of the year" and "handicap horse of the year" honors. His brilliant racing record included 16 wins in 25 starts, including eleven stakes victories.

Purchased as a yearling at the Keeneland fall sales for $17,000, Helioscope started only once as a two-year-old but came into his own in the summer of his three-year-old form. He was rated the high weight, at 130 pounds, in the three year old free handicap, an honor he shared with Determine, High Gun, and Turn-On.

Helioscope is by Heliopolis, one of America's great sires, from the Man O' War mare, War Flower. His record breaking ranged at distances from seven furlongs to a full mile and a quarter. He set new track marks at Bowie, Garden State Park, Monmouth Park, Atlantic City, and Suffolk Downs.

Helis said that a decision would be reached within the next few weeks as to the locale where Helioscope would enter his career as a sire.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

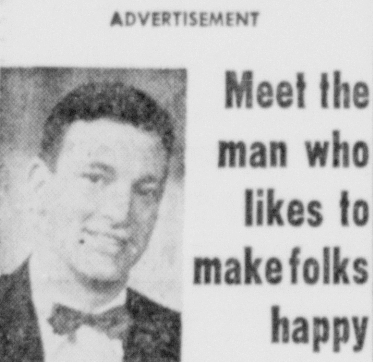

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3 (INS)—Anne Baxter gets her favorite boy friend, Russell Birdwell, as her director in "The Come On" for Allied Artists. Now that doesn't mean Birdwell is jumping into a field of which he knows nothing because he directed "Street Corners" and "Main Stem" long before he ever started courting Anne.

This will be Missy Baxter's fifth picture in 12 months, and it starts Monday. She signed with Lindsley Parsons Productions for "The Come On," which is based on a dramatic novel by Whitman Chambers.

Guess it's no secret Anne and Birdwell will wed as soon as he is free.

There was a little sob in the voice of Director George Stevens when he called me to tell me about Jimmy Dean. Jimmy had finished all his scenes in "Giant," but it wasn't of his picture George thought at that moment. It was of the boy, so needlessly killed in the very prime of one of the most Charm hasn't a chance if you're guilty of smugness.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

It's sometimes said in a joking way, "Don't be smug." There never was better advice, even when not seriously intended. It isn't possible to be smug and to be charming at the same time.

There's something about a smug statement that rings a heavy curtain down between the smug person and anyone who listens to him. "I never eat foreign food." "I wouldn't have modern furniture in my house." "We always do this certain way in our family."

Perhaps you don't agree with the tastes or the methods of someone else. Why don't you agree with them? A good reason is that you've investigated and considered the matter thoughtfully and have made your decision with good cause. But a bad reason is that you don't know anything about any possibility beyond your own point of view. And it's usually ignorance rather than considered opinion that prompts flat-footed smugness.

Whatever the reason behind it, there's little that's winning about a self-satisfied statement of a set attitude. The person who hears you make it may have a real enthusiasm for what you don't like. Nothing drives anyone away faster than to feel opposition to what is dear to him. And it's ungracious to the point of rudeness to make your opposite view crystal clear. It's unnecessary, too. There are plenty of graceful remarks in good social usage that stop short of it, if something must be said. Or better still, you can encourage discussion of

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is national "Newspaper Week" and a famed columnist and reporter describes the newspaper fight for "your right to know.")

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (INS)—"Our forefathers knew that the republic they had just founded could not live and thrive without an intelligent and informed citizenry," wrote Neil MacNeill, veteran newspaperman. His words are particularly recalled this week—Newspaper Week—because the theme this year is "Your Newspaper Fights for Your Right To Know."

"They also knew that the best assurance of such a citizenry was a press that printed the truth—a press that told the people what their government was doing and told the government what the people wanted to do," Mr. MacNeill continued.

"They left the press under private ownership, for then the whole of it could not be controlled by any political party or group, and they made it a free press . . . free to gather the news and free to print it."

But many forces, some well-intentioned, some frankly contemptuous of your right to know, erect blockades.

"The most undermining and unrelenting attack is upon the right of newspapers to get the facts," J. R. Wiggins, executive editor of the Washington Post and Times Herald, recently told the American Society of Journalism School Administrators.

"It seems to me that in the last 50 years of our history there has been developed in government at every level an increasing disposition to withhold information from the people. There is an impulse toward secrecy that threatens, not only our free press, but all our free institutions. It is encountered in every branch of government, legislative, executive and judicial. It is met at every level of government, local, state and federal."

The Department of Defense now requires that only what it calls "useful" or "interesting" stories shall be released to the public which supports it. The order has been carried to such extremes that recently a reporter's request for standard biographical material about a dead general was held up pending a meeting of a department review board.

U. S. reporters attending the opening of the Istanbul Hilton Hotel, in Turkey, where we maintain a military mission that costs the taxpayers many millions, asked routine questions about morale, living conditions and the like. A public information officer enthusiastically set about gathering material that would have been of interest to home town papers. As a precaution he contacted his superiors in Ankara and next day lamely called the visiting reporters and announced he was not permitted to tell them anything.

Contract Bridge by Josephine Culbertson

AN UNUSUAL OPENING LEAD

WEST'S opening lead in the deal below was of the sort that would appall most players, but it had a good chance to gain a trick—and even when it failed to do so, it didn't cost anything.

The bidding:

Pass Pass Pass

North's three-spade bid was inexcusable, and he might have reaped severe punishment if South had not been able to rescue him in the seven-card diamond suit. As a matter of fact, the takeout double that North made initially was unsound.

Since East did not double four diamonds, West concluded that it would be touch-and-go whether or not the contract could be defeated. West's own spade length indicated that South was extremely short and would be able to discard on North's suit; and it did not appear probable that many heart tricks would accrue to the defense. So, on the assumption that the club king would lie with either North or East, West laid down the club ace, hoping to develop a ruff in the suit.

East signalled with the club deuce, and West saw that his analysis had gone astray, so he quickly shifted to a heart. The ace was put up; then declarer cashed the ace and king of spades, discarding his second heart. Now, faced with the sure loss of two trump tricks, South saw no hope of avoiding another club loser except by finessing, and so he tried that finesse immediately, since he could not hope to return to dummy.

Thus, West made the club queen anyway, just as he would have if he had let the suit alone, and the contract was defeated.

Top Shriner Stresses Need For Leadership

Pays Official Visit To Ali Ghan Temple

Nobles of Ali Ghan Temple, A. O. N. M. S., last night were urged by Imperial Potentate Walter C. Guy to seek the best available leadership and support their program.

Imperial Potentate Guy, of Little Rock, Ark., spoke at a dinner meeting in Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, held to mark his first official visit to the Western Maryland temple.

"Let's strengthen what we have," he urged in outlining his "conservative but liberal" program.

He said his program will be conservative — by preserving the best of the past — but liberal — by discarding the obsolete and outmoded.

Most people, he said, recognize Masonry as being a philosophy of "how to live" based on the beliefs of one true God and the immortality of the soul.

Reviews Shrine Units

Shrinedom, he added, believes in Masonry and therefore Shrinedom believes in all that is good.

Shrinedom, is a way of life, he continued, based on good fellowship, Masonic ideals, true charity and loyalty to country.

Some 350 members of the Temple and their guests attended the dinner meeting.

Immediately following the dinner, Imperial Potentate Guy reviewed the Ali Ghan Shrine flag unit, band, patrol and drum corps.

The colorful ceremony, which drew more than 600 spectators, was held on the lawn of the country club with lighting effects supplied by the Shrine Wrecking Crew.

Following the review, a dance was held in honor of Imperial Potentate and Mrs. Guy.

Is Visiting Temples

Guy was elected imperial potentate July 15 in Chicago and on August 1 began an itinerary which has already taken him into 22 of the 166 temples in North America.

He has already visited temples in the Middle West, Canada, Alaska and the Pacific Northwest and is currently swinging into the New England states.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy arrived here Sunday afternoon after an official visit to Montpelier, Vt.

They leave for their home today, will spend Wednesday and Thursday at home, Friday and Saturday in Tulsa, Okla., and fly back to New York City to complete the tour of temples in Maine.

It is the duty of the Imperial Potentate to visit as many temples as is practical to promote the welfare of Shrinedom in its fraternal and hospital activities.

In this work, he meets most of the 750,000 Shriners in North America, banded together into 166 units similar to Ali Ghan Temple here.

The Shriners philosophy, he said, embodies two superlatives, scattering the sunshine of life and pressing forward what has become known as the world's greatest philanthropy, the Shriners' Hospitals for Crippled Children.

Guy reported he was delighted with a tour of historical spots in the Cumberland area and surprised at the moderate weather encountered during his brief visit here.

Suits Filed In Court Seek Land

Two separate condemnation suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court by the State Roads Commission.

One of the suits involves property in the 16th Election District and is being sought for the construction of the North Branch access road.

The petitioners have deposited a check for $1,100 payable to the clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court. Included in the property is 1.53 acres, more or less, which is fee simple; and .70 acres, more or less, lying adjacent for slope and drainage easements on Route 51.

Defendants are Charles S. Reckley and his wife, Marcelle, of Berkeley Springs, W. Va.; A. Marthee Manges and her husband, Earl E. Manges, Pleasant Valley Road; Robert J. Heffley and wife, S. Geneva Heffley, Berlin, Pa. mortgages, and the Liberty Trust Company, mortgagee.

In the other suit the SRC is seeking property belonging to Floyd K. Goldsboro and his wife, Phoebe Goldsboro, of RFD 3, Keyser and the First Federal Savings and Loan Association here, mortgagee.

The property is located in the 31st Election District along Route 220, between Rawlings to McCoolle. The SRC has deposited $1,500 payable to the clerk of the court here.

The land consists of .21 acres, more or less, which is taken fee simple and .01 acres, more or less, lying adjacent to the property for slope and drainage easements.

Local 4-H leaders and members of the 4-H Boys' Federation will meet Wednesday, October 12, at 7:30 p. m. in the Court House.

Business to be discussed, according to Merritt N. Pope, assistant county agent, will include appointment of committees for the annual banquet.

Review Ali Ghan Shrine Units

Imperial Potentate Walter C. Guy (seated) reviews uniformed units of Ali Ghan Temple, A. O. N. M. S., on his first official visit to Western Maryland. Seen on the porch of Ali Ghan Shrine Club are Howard M. Albaugh, Frederick, potentate of Ali Ghan

Temple; Imperial Potentate Guy, Mrs. Lura Guy, and Mrs. Albaugh. The review of the units followed a dinner meeting and an address by the Little Rock, Ark. businessman who was elected imperial potentate in July.

Lonaconing Workers Win Unemployment Pay Appeal

An appeals referee of the State Department of Employment Security has rescinded the ruling of a claims examiner denying unemployment benefits to workers of the Lonaconing Mill of the General Textile Mills for a July 3 to 9 shutdown.

Officials of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), and its Lonaconing sub-local, said about 78 workers of the plant will receive benefits as a result of the decision regarding the period when the company said, the plant was shut down for vacations.

The appeal was filed for the workers in the name of Dorothy Stewart and Gertrude Albright here August 3. They were represented by Melvin Harris, president, and Irvin Lewis, vice president of Local 1874, and Ellsworth Shockey and James Muir, of the sub-local.

The company, through its plant superintendent, said the mill was shut down July 1 and reopened July 11 on orders posted 30 days in advance.

Harris said the company posted the notice on June 16, which did not give employees 30 days notice and that no mention was made that the shutdown was for vacation purposes.

F. D. Workman, appeals referee, commented that no joint determination designating the time as a vacation period was made between the company and the union.

He added the payment of accumulated vacation pay did not "ipso facto" create a vacation period, since the workers apparently could have worked and drawn vacation pay simultaneously, or could have received a vacation upon request.

"Some received their vacation pay, without requesting it, a week before the shutdown, while still others did not receive any remuneration until after they had returned to work."

Under these circumstances, he said, the remuneration was not sufficiently connected with the week in question, adding "it is held that the claimants were unemployed from July 5 through July 8."

Farmer Is Butted In Mouth By Goat

Ernest E. Staggs, a Burlington area farmer, had the unusual and painful experience of being butted in the mouth by a goat.

Staggs, who was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, where a number of stitches were required to close severe lip and face lacerations, said he was struck in the mouth by his billy goat.

The animal jumped a fence, and as he hurried past Staggs, a horn struck the farmer in the mouth and bowled him over. It was not indicated whether the animal was attacking the farmer, or was merely showing he could jump a fence.

New Training Course Offered Scout Leaders

Classes Begin On October 11

A training course for Girl Scout leaders will begin October 11 at 9:30 a. m. at the Girl Scout House, Greene Street, according to Miss Olive Hurlburt, local scout executive, who will instruct the course.

Classes will meet once each week for eight weeks, with each class for a two-hour period from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. The Girl Scouts require 16 hours training for each adult leader. This class will be made up of about 25 new volunteer leaders for Brownie, Intermediate and Senior Scout troops.

At the opening session of this leadership course, Mrs. Loren Morey, training chairman of the Cumberland Council, will be hostess. Arrangements have also been made for baby-sitters at these study sessions, so mothers can bring pre-school age children with them and have them cared for.

Miss Hurlburt said there are a few volunteer leaders who plan to take this study course but have not yet turned in their application forms for final approval. These forms must be in the Girl Scout office by this Friday, she commented.

These training courses are designed to help leaders to a better and proper understanding of the Girl Scout program, objectives and activities, as well as to inform them on program planning and troop government.

During the eight weeks of study, the leaders will be given demonstrations, will view exhibits and films, and will engage in discussion sessions.

There is no fee for the course for those under the jurisdiction of the Cumberland Council Girl Scouts, however, those from other areas, or those outside of scouting who wish to take this leadership training are charged a nominal registration fee, to cover costs of text books and materials used.

Sewage Plant Job "Getting Out Of Mud"

Mayor Roy W. Eves reported yesterday the contractor for the city's sewage treatment plant is "getting out of the mud" so the big job can continue throughout the winter.

He said the only foundation work remaining on the plant site are for the main pumping station and the boiler house, and that slabs for both structures will be poured this month.

Another unit, the Evitts Creek Pumping Station, is being held up due to the Industrial Highway segment of the Cumberland Expressway program.

Work on the structures can continue throughout the winter, he added, once the foundations are laid.

Last week, crews of the Moyer Brothers Company poured 10 yards of concrete for a section of the control chamber between the two digestion tanks and used 32 yards of concrete to pour the west end section of Sludge Bed No. 1.

Other crews completed excavation for the main sewage pumping station and proceeded with the laying of the 30 inch pipe sewer, part of which was encased in concrete in the vicinity of the C&O Canal towpath.

Other crews continued laying the stone paving on the river side of the levee which surrounds the plant, and the fill inside the plant site.

The mayor said the work is about 30 per cent complete and nearly a month ahead of schedule.

AFL Meeting Set

The Building and Construction Trades Council will meet today at 7:30 p. m., in the AFL Labor Temple.

25 Witnesses Testify Before Grand Jury

Judge Reports No Serious Crime

Some 25 witnesses appeared before the grand jury yesterday in the opening day of the October term of Allegany County Circuit Court.

A similar number of witnesses is expected to appear before the jury today. Visits to county institutions are expected to get under way on Thursday.

Meanwhile, Chief Judge George Henderson, in his charge to the jury said "undoubtedly this county is not free from crime, but as far as I know there is at this time no organized and protected crime."

The jurist also said that "at this time, so far as the court and the state's attorney are informed, it is not necessary to advise you to inquire into subversive activities of Communism and any other related subversive organizations, associations, groups or persons."

"As I have indicated before, in connection with your duties generally, you may and should go into this subject if your personal knowledge justifies doing so," Judge Henderson declared.

Duties Outlined

Previously, the judge had given a detailed account of the duties of the grand jury and described how they proceed in their work.

Court house attaches said that so far as known there will be several manslaughterers, one arson, one bigamy, one attempted rape and several carnal knowledge cases to come before the grand jury.

Civil Docket Called

Following the grand jury charge and the beginning of its duties, Chief Judge Henderson and Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris proceeded to call the criminal appeal and civil docket for this term.

Indications are that there will be a slightly heavier civil docket this term than during the term of court last April.

Dalton Major of Lonaconing is foreman of the jury.

Members of the petit jury will report at the Court House at 9:15 a. m. October 17, when criminal trials are expected to begin.

Forest Fire Towers Will Open Today

Today some 12 forest fire towers of the Western Maryland District will be opened for the fall season in anticipation of disastrous fires which could result as the hunting season opens tomorrow.

William H. Johnson, district forester, yesterday said that six of the towers will be manned in near-by Garrett County, three in Allegany County, one in Washington County and two in Frederick County.

The towers will remain open until fall rains assure there is little danger of forest fires or when the winter snows begin to fly.

Johnson said that at the present time the fire danger is medium and the hazard will mount with the falling of foliage and a continued dry spell.

The fire situation depends on the rainfall and the carelessness of hunters who will trek to the woods in quest of game. Hunters are urged to use caution in throwing away lighted cigarettes and also to be sure camp fires are out, down to the last smouldering ember.

In case a hunter or resident of the district spots a fire, he is asked to contact the forest wardens, district forester's office at the Court House or State Police.

A listing of forest wardens appears in the telephone directory just before the yellow pages.

Rotarians Will Hear Program By Trio

The Cumberland Rotary Club will be entertained by the Colomy trio today at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Four Council Candidates File At Lonaconing

Special Election Called October 11

Four candidates for council in the town of Lonaconing have completed proper petitions so their names can be placed on the special election ballots, Town Clerk Robert B. Thomas informed the Mayor and Council at their regular meeting last night.

The candidates, in the order in which their names will appear on the special election ballots, October 11, are James Berry, Frederick H. Sheeley, Douglas Waddell and John W. Wilson.

Berry is a bartender at the American Legion club in Lonaconing, and a son of the late William Berry, councilman who died recently creating the vacancy.

One Is Teacher

Sheeley is a school teacher, employed by the Board of Education of this county.

Waddell is a retired coal mine operator and former member of the council who was defeated at the last regular election.

Wilson is a newcomer to the political scene and is employed at the Celanese plant in Cumberland.

The town council last night authorized Thomas to have 500 sample ballots printed for distribution in the community, so voters would have advance notice of the candidates listed. Voting will be conducted for the first time anywhere in the county on the new voting machines, and polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. the clerk noted.

Seeks Estimates

The mayor and council instructed the town clerk to contact area contractors and seek estimates on repairing a town sewer on West Main Street. Some weeks ago, James Ritchie complained that sewage from this line was seeping into his basement. The Health Department ran tests and found that the town's sewer is broken and the seepage in the Ritchie home is coming from the sewer main. Mayor Virgil Alexander urged that it be repaired immediately to eliminate any possible health hazard.

The clerk was also authorized to advertise for bids for sidewalk approaches to the east end bridge where the State Roads Commission has agreed to build a pavement. The town must bear the cost of the approaches, while the state will pay for the sidewalk on the bridge.

Mayor Alexander, who is chairman of the Town Street Lighting and Decorating Committee, has called a meeting of the committee at the town hall for Thursday at 7:30 p. m. Mayor Alexander said that plans will be discussed for the annual Christmas holiday lighting and street decorations.

He emphasized that it is desirable that all Lonaconing organizations send representatives and that any interested individuals will be welcome.

Air Reserve Examination Postponed

The examination scheduled for Flight J., 9511th Air Reserve Squadron, has been indefinitely postponed, according to Lt. Howard A. Buchanan, training instructor.

Word has been received from the Squadron Headquarters in Hagerstown that the test will be deferred until a later date. Flight J. will meet with Flight M, enlisted men's flight, today at 8 p. m. at the Naval Armory, McKaig's Hill.

A regular class in specialized training program will be conducted in both flights. Members of the flights due for physical examinations are asked to be ready for tests this evening, according to Lt. Col. Carlton Brinsfield, flight surgeon.

Examination had been scheduled for October 11 but had been moved up. Captain Ernest J. Fauss, commander of the local unit, announces that the quota set for the activation of another flight has nearly been reached.

A new unit will be activated in the near future. This flight is for men in the aircraft mechanics category. Captain Fauss added that men are being recruited for a flight in training for non-commissioned officers.

Men with the rank of Airman First Class or higher may contact the Air Reserve for further information on qualifications for training.

He also added that plans for a recruiting party this month are under way. The purpose of the party is to acquaint veterans with the advantages of the training program.

All veterans on the Air Reserve file will be notified. Other interested persons are asked to contact Captain Fauss.
